Hillcroft Newsletter

Discover what's happening now and what's ahead, as we work with Homes NSW and the community to shape a better future for Claymore.

Housing construction and sales

Stage 6

Construction started this month, marking the next step in delivering new homes and streets for the community. Devcon Civil have started road upgrades on Dobell Road through to October 2026. This will temporarily close Gidley Crescent and bring more traffic, with access maintained via Arkley Avenue and Glenroy Drive.

Stage 4

Remediation works were completed in February. We're now installing new electrical and communication services along Dobell Road, while continuing to build retaining walls and roads within the site.

Davis Park

Planning for Davis Park is moving forward. Detailed design is underway, with park improvements set to start later this year.

Brady Park

Upgrades are underway at Brady Park. We're building a stormwater basin and realigning the footpath to improve access. The path is temporarily closed until October while this work takes place.

Dimeny Park

Following a product recall, we're temporarily removing the basketball hoop while replacement parts arrive in the coming weeks.

The latest from Sunday Funday

The May Sunday Funday was a great day for the Claymore community, with 95 people coming along to enjoy the sunshine, activities and time together. It was lovely to see both familiar faces and new community members joining in.

To mark National Reconciliation Week, local Aboriginal-owned business Nula Weaving led the activities. Community members of all ages got involved - painting rocks, making bracelets and even trying their hand at basket weaving.

The day created a relaxed and welcoming space where people could connect, have a chat and try something new. Many people said how much they enjoyed the event and were excited to hear Sunday Funday will continue over winter.

Sunday Funday continues to bring people together, creating opportunities to connect and helping build a strong, welcoming community in Claymore.

Live Life Get Active – program update

Community members relaxing during a yoga session.

The Live Life Get Active fitness camps in Claymore and Airds will finish at the end of June, as the provider winds down operations.

For more than five years, these free weekday classes have helped people stay active, improve their health and feel more connected. Thousands of community members have taken part in cross training, yoga and boxing, building stronger wellbeing and a greater sense of belonging.

We thank the Live Life Get Active team, their dedicated trainers and everyone who got involved.

What's next

We're exploring new free fitness options for Claymore and Airds, with a goal to introduce a new program in time for the warmer months.

Celebrating mums across Claymore

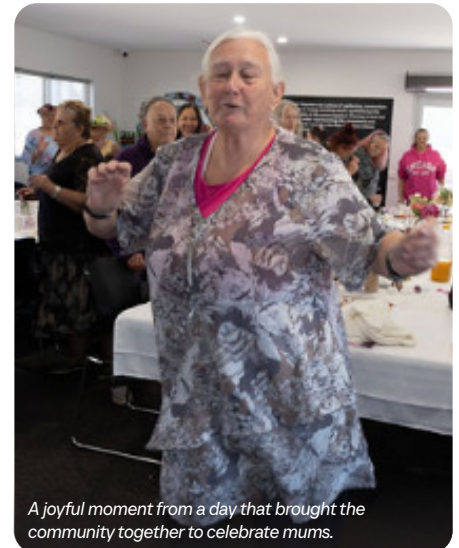

The Claymore communities came together to celebrate Mother's Day, creating a warm and vibrant day filled with connection, laughter and shared moments.

Families, friends and neighbours gathered to recognise the important women in their lives and spend time together as a community.

Guests enjoyed a relaxed Mother's Day high tea, along with a range of hands-on pamper workshops. From body scrubs and hand lotions to showersteamers, there was something for everyone to try, learn and enjoy.

The room came alive with spontaneous singing and dancing, bringing energy and joy to the day. The fancy hat parade was another highlight, with community members proudly showing off their creativity. A pamper hamper was awarded to the best hat, adding a fun finish to the celebration.

The day showed strong community spirit. It was a chance to connect, celebrate and spend time together building a welcoming and supportive place for everyone.

A joyful moment from a day that brought the community together to celebrate mums.
